Murton Roofing of SC, Inc. is extremely experienced with working with the Department of Education, Office of School Facilities, since all South Carolina Schools report to that agency. We have re-roofed literally hundreds of School buildings of all types for numerous school districts throughout the state over the last 20 years.

Beginning in 1990, we successfully completed 53 emergency dry-in projects for the Charleston County School District in the aftermath of Hurricane Hugo, thereby allowing children to return to damaged buildings much faster than usual. We then went on to install permanent 20-year roofs on those same facilities.

Over the years we at Murton Roofing of SC, have completed numerous projects for several school districts including, but not limited to, Charleston County, Dorchester Two, Orangeburg Four, Beaufort County, Horry County, Anderson County, Sumter County, Richland One, Lexington One, Florence County, Aiken County, Richland/Lexington Five, Lexington Four, Lexington Two as well as Richland Two.

More recently Murton Roofing has gained vast experience in providing the exact same type of I.D.C. Services as required for this bid to local school districts, most notably Richland One and Lexington One.

We have been doing regular steady work for Richland One from 2002 to the present, and have completed more than 300 individual work orders, mostly consisting of small to medium repairs, but also some re-roofs when necessary.

Our scope of work has covered all roof types on all types of structures.

In addition to K through 12 Facilities, we have extensive experience with Higher Education Agencies as well, some of which include the College of Charleston, Medical University of South Carolina, The Citadel, Horry Georgetown Technical College, USC Salkahatchie, South Carolina State University, Columbia College, USC Aiken, USC Spartanburg, Tri-County Technical College, USC Union and The University of South Carolina.
